

Nixon gets 60 per cent of vote--

Though Nixon's coattails clearly helped some Republicans, Democratic challengers withstood the GOP presidential tide to knock off at least four veteran Republican senators—Gordon Allott of Colorado, Jack Miller of Iowa, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware and the venerable Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, beaten at age 74, by Democratic Rep. William Hathaway.

In the House, meanwhile, the Republican gain in the early-morning hours stood at a mere nine seats, far short of the 41-seat pickup needed to give the GOP control.

Democrats were on their way to a possible increase in their margin of governorships, which stood at 30 to 20 before the election.

But a potential Democratic star fell in West Virginia where Republican Gov. Arch A. Moore

Jr. won re-election over John D. "Jay" Rockefeller IV.

In state after state, Nixon piled up overwhelming majorities. Few were even close, Rhode Island, which swamped Nixon 2 to 1 in 1968, gave him a 24,000-vote lead this time. McGovern's South Dakota gave Nixon 55 per cent of the vote.

In the big industrial states of the Northeast and Midwest, McGovern's main hopes for an upset and his favorite campaign area in his 200,000-mile presidential journey, Nixon piled up massive majorities.

Pennsylvania, which supported Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968, went to Nixon by more than 800,000 votes, while New York, in which the President had twice been defeated, fell to him by more than one million votes.

And Nixon became the first Republican ever to sweep the once solidly Democratic South.

Massive defections in normally Democratic areas combined with heavier-than-usual majorities in GOP strongholds to give Nixon totals often beyond those captured by the late Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 and 1960.

And the President proclaimed at his victory celebration that "we have accomplished what seemed to be impossible. We not only won a majority of the votes of Americans but we won a majority of the votes of young Americans."

The influx of 18-year-old voters had seemed to Democratic strategists last summer as a chief reason for optimism after McGovern put together an enthusiastic, youth-oriented organization to stun the political professionals and captured his party's presidential nomination.

per cent the fourth election dating back to his victory over former Gov. Orval E. Faubus in the 1970 Democratic runoff primary in which he topped 60 per cent of the vote.

With 2,539 of 2,693 precincts reported, Bumpers had polled

Gov. Bumpers wins by big margin

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers won a huge second-term victory Tuesday, burying Republican Len Blaylock under one of Arkansas' largest electoral landslides, while Democrats won three other contested races for constitutional office by fat margins.

19 to McGovern. McClellan garnered 57 votes to 17 for his GOP opponent Dr. Wayne Babbitt. Bumpers scored a convincing 58 to 16 win in that box over Republican Len E. Blaylock. Riley soundly upended challenger Ken Coon, 59-13. Bryant held a 62-11 edge over opponent Jerry Climer, attorney general candidate Jim Guy Tucker outpointed GOP candidate Ed Bethune 59-13 and Patterson had 54 votes to 12 for Mrs. Pruden.

However, Stephens School voters voted against the continuation of the county road tax, and cast more votes against Act 1 than in favor of it (38-25).

In the two races for positions on the Hope City Board of Directors, Mayor Sam Strong was re-elected, defeating his opponent, Sam Andrews, 1,850 to 909.

W. L. Tate, another incumbent member of the board, won re-election over Mrs. Lynn Harris, 1,588 to 1,206.

In the race for Patmos mayor, Mrs. Gary Formby was elected, receiving 22 votes to 17 for her opponent, D. A. Datray.

McClellan, JPH win big

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan cruised to his sixth and probably last Senate term in Tuesday's general election, and Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, Arkansas' only major Republican officeholder, won what he called a "vote of confidence" in gaining his fourth term.

The 76-year-old McClellan crushed his Republican opponent, Dr. Wayne H. Babbitt, a 44-year-old North Little Rock veterinarian without exerting even half the effort he expended in surviving a runoff for the Democratic nomination in the primary.

During the primary, McClellan said he did not intend to seek another term in 1978.

Hammerschmidt did not ride President Nixon's coattail in trampling his Democratic opponent, Guy Hatfield, a 65-year-old retired actor from Rogers, for the 4th District seat. He pulled in more than 70 per cent of the vote.

With 1,935 of 2,693 precincts reported, McClellan had 231,245 votes to 147,593 for Babbitt.

Hammerschmidt had 51,196 votes to 16,471 for Hatfield with 403 of 791 precincts reported.

McClellan said Tuesday night that there never had been any doubt in his mind that he would not win. "I felt confident all the way," he said.

The senator, who was accused by Babbitt of "ignoring an entire election," said he did not come back to Arkansas to campaign until Congress adjourned because of his congressional responsibilities. "I had to make a decision whether to come back and campaign or stay there and perform my duties," he said.

McClellan said he did not want to say this was his sweetest victory. "All victories in politics have a particular flavor of sweetness about them," he said. "It was a very pleasant occasion."

The year, he said, had been "a year of challenge, a year of struggle and a year of triumph."

Despite McClellan's overwhelming lead, Babbitt said Tuesday night he would wait until the final vote was in. He said his biggest handicap during the campaign was the lack of money that prevented him from getting proper exposure.

Babbitt, with no Republican opposition, had begun his campaign early in the year to get voters familiar with his name before zeroing in on McClellan's record after the senator emerged from the bitter, four-man Democratic primary.

Babbitt, who served as director of the state Livestock and Poultry Commission during the Republican administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and later was director of the Little Rock office of the Housing and Urban Development Department, may have made gains in name recognition, but McClellan's popularity could not be denied.

At the halfway point during Tuesday's returns, McClellan was leading in all Arkansas counties except Crawford, Hot Spring, Johnson, Montgomery, Newton and Searcy.

Nixon's sweep of the state had no effect, as expected, on the veteran Democrat, whose beliefs more closely related to those of Nixon than George S. McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Hammerschmidt, a popular businessman from Harrison said after his election that he was "grateful for the vote of confidence given" him.

Helen Help Us!

—by Helen Bottel—

DEAR HELEN:

"Are Romeo's supermen?" one of your male correspondents asks, and then wonders where a husband and father gets the time or energy. Is he kidding? Or maybe he has an 8:00 to 5:00 job plus two hours of commuting and is somewhat low in libido.

Not so with university professors. I am married to one. They leave home at 8 a.m., return at 6:30 p.m. Since my husband's first class is at 10, he has plenty of time before work for a little refreshing rendezvous. Then there are two hours free at lunch. He finishes his last class in mid-afternoon, and young chicks are quite willing to improve his shining leisure hours.

It is the same with research people, salesmen and executives who aren't jailed in time-clock offices. Upper Echelon hanky-panky is expected. It's so routine that if a man doesn't indulge himself he's considered a little strange or, like your male correspondent, very naive.—A DISILLUSIONED WIFE

DEAR WIFE:
...Or perhaps merely in love with his wife.

Honest, every man who has the opportunity doesn't indulge—but a suspicious wife may nudge him in that direction.—H.

P.S. On the other hand, many do read on!

DEAR HELEN:
Extra-marital affairs were once considered mostly for men, while the true little wife waited at home. What these men don't realize is that the wife has a much better opportunity for hanky-panky than does her mate. After she sends the kids to school, she has at least six hours of freedom, while her husband must squeeze his infidelities into hours stolen from work.

I figured my husband was doing some sampling. So I pointed out how easy an affair would be for a housewife—and planted a few seeds of doubt, like the "cat that ate the cream" smile, an unusual cigarette in an ash tray, etc.

He's now home at 5:45 p.m. (no more "traffic jams" or "late hours").

Was I unfaithful? Wouldn't you—and he—just LOVE to know!—TRUE GRET

DEAR HELEN:

About affairs: yes, we can find the time energy! I've been seeing a married man who has five young children but, luckily, his wife isn't interested in him sexually. She's relieved that he doesn't bother her any more.

The "planning" part isn't too difficult as he works for himself. He can be seeing a "client," or an "agent," or "getting equipment repaired" when he's out of the office. Which, in a way, is true. On days when he is really busy, he leaves for work early so he can be with me.

Yes, it's worth the effort. I'd rather be his wife, but he won't leave his children, so half a loaf makes me a—HAPPY SAMPLER

DEAR HELEN:

It's idiotic to consider sexual "fidelity" for only criterion for a happy marriage. If my husband is attractive to other women and falls for their charms once in a while, I consider this a challenge. I'd hate to have a man no one else wants! He feels the same about me. So we don't "fall" very often, but when we do, it's no big trauma. Just a signal that we'd better stir up the home fires.—MODERN.

HEAR HELEN:

I thought I could be "with it," and carry on an affair while still making my marriage happy and complete. But the comparisons creep in. Maybe man is not a monogamous creature, but he isn't equipped to love two women equally.—TIRED AND REFORMED

DEAR HELEN:

The rules of "sampling" are simple: When man and wife are separated by work or war: It's okay. When they're together: it isn't.—EXPERIENCED.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of this newspaper.

Hospital Auxiliary donates funds

The Hempstead County Memorial Hospital Ladies Auxiliary presented to the Memorial Hospital a check for $2,000 in payment for new light fixtures for the patient rooms. The new fixtures will not only provide much needed additional light, but will also add to the beauty of the rooms.

The hospital Auxiliary was organized in 1969. Its primary functions are to regulate the visiting hours and control the number of visitors to each patient. It also performs several other services such as, providing information to visitors, distributing mail to patients.

In the past two years the Auxiliary has purchased a youth bed, bed rails, and a rocking chair for the hospital. Don Abbott, administrator, stated. The work and devotion of these ladies is a tremendous asset to our hospital. "We at the hospital are greatly pleased to have these women working with us."

The Hospital Auxiliary collects money through the operation of the gift shop and several vending machines located in the hospital.

Charlie McClendon:

'It'll be a heckuva game'

NEW YORK (AP) — "It will," said Charlie McClendon, "be a heckuva physical game. We'll be going nose to nose and jaw to jaw."

The Louisiana State football coach was talking about Saturday's classic Southeastern Conference match-up in Birmingham.

ham of unbeaten teams between his Tigers, rated sixth nationally, and second-ranked Alabama.

It will be Alabama's ground attack, which is averaging 287.6 yards a game, against the LSU defense, which has permitted an average of only 109.

It will be the sharpshooting of LSU's Bert Jones against an Alabama club which ranks ninth best nationally against the pass. Barnes opponents have completed only 48.6 percent of their passes for 701 yards, an average of just 57.6 per game.

It will be the nation's No. 6 team in total defense (Alabama) against No. 8 (LSU). It will be LSU's 9.4 points-against average, sixth best nationally, against Alabama's 10.3, which ranks eighth.

It will be ... LSU. Nebraska at Iowa State—How'd you like to play Oklahoma and Nebraska back-to-back? That's what Iowa State is doing, having lost to the Sooners 20-6. Nebraska merely ranks third nationally in total offense, fourth in passing, first in scoring, first in total defense, fourth in rushing defense, fourth in pass defense and third in scoring defense. Nebraska.

Ohio State at Michigan State—Duffy Daugherty announced last Friday night that he will retire at the end of the year and the Spartans, 2-4-1 at the time, promptly went out and whipped Purdue. "I wish I had the job back," Duffy quipped the other day, "so I can retire again this Friday night." Retired or not, the Spartans are fired up, the Buckeyes are banged up. Upset Special of the Week ... Michigan State.

Missouri at Oklahoma—From a 2-3 start, including a 27-0 loss to Baylor and a 62-0 mauling from Nebraska, Missouri has turned around and knocked off Notre Dame, Colorado and Kansas State to reach the No. 14 spot in The Associated Press rankings. But Oklahoma is where the wind—and the backs—come sweeping down the plain. Oklahoma.

Ricky Kyle, Little Rock Catholic.

Olsen makes standout performance

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'll take that Merlin Olsen on my team any time," said Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

That, in effect, is what he got last Sunday. Los Angeles' defensive tackle was all over the Falcons, helping to shut down both the pass and rush and paving the way to a 20-7 victory by the Rams which solidified their grip on first place in the National Conference West.

For his standout performance, the 6-foot-5, 270-pounder was selected today as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week.

Other nominees included Cleveland defensive tackle Walter Johnson, who sacked Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini once and led the charge on three other sacks and also stopped running back Fred Willis on a fourth-and-inches situation at the goal line to preserve the Browns' 20-0 shutout; and Minnesota safety Jeff Wright, who intercepted a pair of passes to set up a touchdown and field goal in the Vikings' 37-6 trouncing of New Orleans.

"Watching myself in films," Olsen once said, "I look like a bull elephant doing a tap dance." But then, linemen aren't expected to be delicate—and Olsen was anything but

Warriors edge by Buffaloes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Rick Barry noticed it. Of course, he would have. He was chasing a National Basketball Association foul shooting record and he wanted the conditions to be perfect.

"The basket doesn't look right to me, it looks a little high and a little off center," said Barry before he and his Golden State Warriors met the Buffalo Braves Tuesday night.

Perhaps thinking too much about the whereabouts of the basket, Barry missed his first foul shot in 40 tries this season—but the Warriors found everything okay for field goal shooting enroute to a 105-91 victory at the Buffalo Auditorium.

The Warriors wiped out a 33-51 Buffalo lead at the intermission and charged by the Braves with a hot second half led by Jeff Mullins' shooting and Clyde Lee's fine rebounding work.

Barry wound up with 16 points in the game. However, he had 2-of-4 from the free throw line, an unlikely Barry performance. The Warriors' flashy forward had hit 39 straight and was after the NBA record of 56 held by Bill Sharman.

In Tuesday night's other NBA games, the Atlanta Hawks nudged the Baltimore Bullets 100-107 in overtime and the Los Angeles Lakers turned back the Houston Rockets 122-109.

Barry's point-a-game help helped his teammates score two goals, leading them to a 3-2 National Hockey League victory over the St. Louis Blues.

Goring, who has scored at least a point in each of Los Angeles' last 10 games, assisted on Jimmy Peters' first-period goal, then set up another by Ralph Backstrom in the third period for the game-winner.

The victory was the Kings' eighth straight and pushed their West Division lead to four points over the idle Chicago Black Hawks and Philadelphia Flyers.

The contest was the only NHL game Tuesday night. In the World Hockey Association, the Houston Aeros defeated the Chicago Cougars 3-2 and the Alberta Oilers beat the New York Raiders 4-2.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 lead as Peters scored on Goring's pass, then John Widing contributed an unassisted goal early in the second period.

But St. Louis rallied on two goals set up by Bob McCord. Gary Unger beat Los Angeles goalie Rogation Vachon and Mike Murphy drilled in another.

Third-period goals by Ed Hoekstra and Jack Stanfield gave Houston its victory over Chicago. Rosemarie Palemont put Chicago in front halfway through the second period, but the 1-0 lead lasted only about four minutes as Ted Taylor scored the tying goal for the Aeros.

Reg Fleming scored the last goal of the game, for Chicago. Jim Harrison assisted on three goals, helping Alberta top New York.

Bench does it again

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was a sunny afternoon last May when Johnny Bench sat in the Cincinnati Reds dugout, pondering his fate as a superstar gone sour.

The National League's Most Valuable Player in 1970, Bench had slumped to a .236 batting average in 1971, and the Reds fell from pennant winners to fourth-place finishers.

In May well into the 1972 season, Bench again was batting at his humble 1971 level, and the pressure was showing.

"I know I'll hit," Bench muttered that day. "It's my job, my profession, and I know I will hit. Maybe I'm pressing, I don't know, but I will hit."

He was right. Bench slammed four of his league-leading 40 home runs during a four-game Cincinnati sweep of Houston in late May, and the Reds were headed for the NL Western Division pennant.

Bench finished the campaign with 125 runs batted in and a .270 batting average as the Reds won the NL pennant and Tuesday was named the 1972 National League Most Valuable Player.

"Winning (the award) in 1970 was a great thrill for me," he said, "but this year the race was a lot different because so many people involved for us were having good years."

Bench, a muscular 24-year-old, drew a total of 263 votes, including 11 first-place votes from a 24-man panel of the Baseball Writers Association—tory at the Buffalo Auditorium. The Warriors wiped out a 33-51 Buffalo lead at the intermission and charged by the Braves with a hot second half led by Jeff Mullins' shooting and Clyde Lee's fine rebounding work.

Barry wound up with 16 points in the game. However, he had 2-of-4 from the free throw line, an unlikely Barry performance. The Warriors' flashy forward had hit 39 straight and was after the NBA record of 56 held by Bill Sharman.

Steelers roll up victory

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "Consistency," said Pittsburgh Steeler offensive coach Bob Fry, "That's the thing that puts him in the company of the best."

Fry was referring to guard Bruce Van Dyke, whose play broke down the Cincinnati defense Sunday as the Steelers rolled up a 40-17 victory and grabbed sole possession of first place in the American Conference Central Division.

The Associated Press' National Football League Offensive Player of the Week award usually goes to the glamour boys of pro football—grinding running backs, strong-armed quarterbacks and fleet receivers.

But for his performance against the Bengals, the 6-foot-

2, 225-pound Missouri graduate received the honor.

Van Dyke has a reputation as a fine pull-out guard, a lineman who races in front of his running backs and blocks. He was particularly effective against the Bengals.

"I guess I got a few good shots in the open field this week," said the seven-year veteran. "I guess that's the most glorifying thing for a guard." His performance was outstanding by two counts:

—Mike Reid, Cincinnati's cat-quick defensive tackle, had sacked enemy quarterbacks 26 times and had a raft of unassisted and assisted tackles. He had spearheaded a defense that was far and away the best in the NFL, particularly against the rush.

But playing opposite Van Dyke, he did not get to quarterback Terry Bradshaw once and had only three assists on tackles.

—The Steelers, once an offensive powderpuff, rolled up 230 yards in rushing alone, and one of the main reasons was the way Van Dyke opened the gates for backs Franco Harris and Frenchy Fuqua.

Rod Shoate shows something extra

By HERSCHEL NIBBENSON Associated Press Sports Writer Reversing the old procedure of finding young talent and making a movie star, Oklahoma's football coaches found Rod Shoate in the movies and made him a football star.

Larry Lacerwell, Oklahoma's defensive coach, brought back some films of the Spiro, Okla., High School team a couple of years ago and Head Coach Chuck Fairbanks and his staff settled back to watch an end named Wayne Hoffman. Instead, Shoate caught their eyes.

"It didn't take but two or three plays to see that he was something extra with all that quickness," Fairbanks recalls.

Now a 6-foot-2, 210-pound sophomore linebacker, Shoate was something extra last Saturday against an Iowa State offense that ranked fifth best nationally, averaging 444.6 yards a game. He was in on 22 tackles—12 unassisted—as Oklahoma posted a 20-6 victory and held the Cyclones to almost 100 yards below their average.

For that performance, Shoate was named National College Lineman of the Week today by The Associated Press.

"He's played as well as any linebacker we've ever had," says Fairbanks. "He's a good tackler, a heckuva competitor and the best pass defender we've got. He's been making tackles all over the field. He hasn't had a bad game and he's been getting better and better every week."

Shoate's speed—he covers 40 yards in 4.5 seconds, better than most backs—enabled him to make one play Saturday which Fairbanks still finds hard to believe.

"He rushed the quarterback on an inside linebacker blitz," the coach said, "but the quarterback got outside and gained about 30 yards before Rod caught him from behind."

Black legislator wants races to work together

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of the first blacks elected to the Arkansas Legislature in the general election said Tuesday night he would attempt to make his district an example of how blacks and whites can work together.

Henry Wilkins III, a 40-year-old professor of political science at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, won election in House District 54, which includes a portion of Jefferson County. The district is about 70 per cent black.

Wilkins defeated his Republican opponent, Odie H. Richmond of Pine Bluff, 2,487 votes to 2,450.

Wilkins said in an interview that the first thing he would do is organize a biracial committee to advise him on positions he should take as a legislator.

West's failure to bid two spades was an example of why some people lose at bridge. His hand was worthless in defense against hearts and had tremendous potential as dummy at a spade contract. In fact there was enough potential so that with the spade finesse working East would have wrapped up a spade game.

Then to add insult to injury, South managed to bring home his four-heart contract.

South went right up with dummy's king of spades to encourage a continuation of the suit, but East was too smart for that. He took his ace and shifted to the king of diamonds.

South let that hold; won the diamond continuation and promptly laid down the ace of hearts. West's queen fell and South came to the conclusion that the queen had been a singleton. With four spades and king-queen of hearts, West would surely have found a two-spade call.

This didn't worry South. He could get to dummy with the ace of clubs and lead a trump from dummy to hold his trump losses to one. Then if the queen of clubs would fall on a second club lead South would make his contract.

South decided that this was a hand where clubs would break 3-1. He led a club; took a first round finesse with dummy's jack and proceeded to make his game.

Highway safety theme of meeting

Highway safety was the theme of the Hope Lion's Monday luncheon meeting at the Town and Country restaurant.

Program Chairman, Milton Mosier, captain, Arkansas State Police, presented Sgt. Ray Davis of the Arkansas State Police who spoke to the group on highway safety and ran a film entitled "The Responsible Driver."

Sgt. Davis has conducted a number of defensive driving schools.

Nationwide, last year, more than fifty five thousand people lost their lives in traffic accidents and alcohol was involved in half or more of these fatalities.

The first ten months of this year six hundred and forty one lives have been lost in Arkansas. Locally there have been three hundred accidents with two fatalities. Last year there were sixteen fatalities locally.

Speaking on safety devices, Sgt. Davis said that the common lap belt was probably the most effective of all, if people would use them. It is estimated that twelve thousand lives would have been saved last year had the belt been used.

Some of the oddities disclosed in the program was that nine thousand pedestrians were killed each year and that they were the very young and the very old, and that in most driving fatalities, the speeds were less than forty miles per hour.

The speaker said that driver improvement was not keeping up with safety devices and no matter how the car was equipped, safety depended on the driver.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Jeep is a versatile four-wheel-drive vehicle which was used extensively during World War II, and was invaluable in rugged terrain. The name Jeep was derived from the letters G.P. which stand for general purpose in U.S. Army language. The World Almanac says.

"Then the king said to the attendants, 'Bind him hand and foot, and cast him into the outer darkness; there men will weep and gnash their teeth.' For many are called, but few are chosen." —Matthew 22:13, 14.

ASTRO-GRAPH
BY BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, November 9, 1972

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

Your outlook is likely to be broader, more optimistic than in the past. This attitude will prove effective in attractive new opportunities for you to explore.

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19): Spirits should be buoyed by getting out and making new contacts. Someone from a distant place could be fortunate for you.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20): There are ways to expand benefits of something you share jointly. Discussion will bring them to light.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A situation with an associate that was a little sticky formerly can be overcome with a display of goodwill.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A philosophical approach to problems will smooth them out well. Co-workers will follow your example.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): Outdoor recreation is just what the doctor ordered. Do something active; it will freshen your perspective.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22): You may want to make some changes around the house. Articles from a foreign land could be just the touch you'll want.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23): Likely to find yourself a little restless today. Don't sit home. Get out on a shopping exploration.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22): Feel a little optimistic regarding your financial outlook. Give yourself a treat, but don't go overboard.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec 21): Your most enjoyment today will be found by immersing yourself in a large group. Take some chums along.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19): Get off somewhere alone. Evaluate past experiences. See if some old wisdom has a place in future plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19): If friends don't measure up to your ideal, don't openly display impatience. No one's perfect, including yourself.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20): Way you handle others today puts your reputation on the line. Large, kind gestures make you look good.

That good old peanut butter

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Please comment on the use of peanut butter in which the oil has been hydrogenated and the butter homogenized, particularly for a person with a heart condition. If you know of a source of the old-fashioned type peanut butter please state. Also, please comment on mayonnaise for a heart patient and do you know of a place where it can be bought where it is made with unhydrogenated vegetable oil?

Dear Reader — Hydrogenating of unsaturated oils converts them to saturated fats. When you read a label on food that says partially hydrogenated, this means that the unsaturated fats have been converted to saturated fats. Because of this process commercial peanut butter usually contains more saturated fat than natural peanut butter. Even natural butter is not the best food in the world for a patient who has heart disease caused by fatty deposits in the arteries. Peanuts contain a tremendous amount of fat. To cut down on fat intake it is not a very good food to be using in any quantity. However, if you want the old-fashioned type peanut butter, you will probably have to go to one of the health food stores or in large supermarkets you can sometimes find it in the diet foods section.

Most commercial mayonnaise contains a lot of fat and egg yolk, both of which are undesirable for individuals with fatty deposits in their arteries. Some of the low calorie mayonnaises are better.

There are some nonfat mayonnaise recipes for those who want to make their own. They are too long to include here but I have described how to make nonfat mayonnaise and other nonfat dressings in my new book "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health" (Viking Press). By using the different recipes and methods in this book, it is possible for anyone to construct for themselves a reasonably low fat diet, avoid too many saturated fats, and cholesterol as well as devise a method for weight control.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have been doing exercises without missing a day for eight months. The ones I do are just for my abdomen, but I am not getting any results at all. Would you recommend surgery to remove this fat? Please give me as much information as possible.

Dear Reader — I don't know what kind of exercises you are doing for your abdomen but some of them are of limited value.

Sit-ups with the legs stretched out will put more load on the muscles that bend your hips rather than the abdominal muscles. Most good abdominal muscle exercises are useful to tone up the abdomen but they are not very effective in eliminating excess fat. To do this you have to do a lot more general type exercises used to burn up calories, such as jogging, or you have to diet. Usually it is a good idea to both diet and exercise.

Rather than surgery, I would recommend learning a good reducing diet that will satisfy your needs and sticking to it. If you stayed on a real good, sensible diet for eight months and utilized a daily program of walking 30 minutes or an hour I would suspect you could do a great deal about the stomach fat. # HOPE MERCHANTS PRESENT THEIR ANNUAL CHRISTMAS

LAY-A-WAY GIFT-IDEAS!

Stewardship supper scenes

Dr. John H. McClanahan, at left, former Hope First Baptist Church pastor and now pastor of First Baptist Church in Pine Bluff, was the guest speaker at the annual Stewardship Banquet of the local church held at the Coliseum at Fair Park. J. V. Moore, Jr., served as general chairman and the speaker was introduced by Melvin Thrash, M.C. for the occasion.

Before Dr. McClanahan spoke, the Hand Bell Choir and the Youth Choir, above, of the church under the direction of Jim Hart presented several numbers.

The pastor opened his message by reminiscing a bit about his days in Hope and the lifetime friendships he enjoys among the people of Hope and its First Baptist Church. He stated that his conception of Heaven was not of things, streets of gold for example, but people and relationships with loved ones and friends.

In choosing his subject for the special occasion, a Stewardship meeting on the theme Committed to Care, he stated he wanted to bring something that was old but at the same time as new as tomorrow.

He related the story from the scriptures concerning the "Good Samaritan" and described three life styles present in that account, life styles that are present in our day. First there was the robber whose philosophy was "What is yours is mine and I'll take it by fair means or foul." Second, there were the Priests and Levites, the religious leaders of the day whose feeling was "What is mine is mine and I'll keep it." Then there was the third life style, that of the Samaritan, "What is mine is ours and I'll share it to the degree of your need and the extent of my ability." "Which life style will be yours in the days before you?" asked the speaker.

After the message Mrs. Jim Hart sang "Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus," and Rev. Gerald Trussell, pastor of the local church gave the benediction.

Develop eye-hand coordination

"What's In My Pockets?" A Surprise Book, is the name of two similar items, one geared for girls and the other for boys. The books are intended for youngsters aged two to six. Each book and learn cloth book teaches children about different types of pockets and fasteners and helps develop eye-hand coordination. The fasteners are oversized and rustproof so that small children can easily manipulate them.

Each book contains eight pockets: a button pocket, zipper pocket, patch pocket, slash pocket, sticky pocket, hip pocket, snap pocket, and even a secret pocket. Each pocket contains a "surprise" — a removable plastic picture disc depicting a typical object that might be found in a boy's, or girl's pocket.

Each cloth page is beautifully illustrated and contains a verse describing and challenging the child to guess what's in the pocket. The book is made of high grade, soft but durable cotton and is colorfast.

Candidacy of McGovern was doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's quest for the White House was doomed by the blunders of its infancy, errors that all his campaigning could never undo.

To the end they plagued his candidacy. And in the end they helped President Nixon attain one of history's great land-slides.

In part, the fatal flaws stemmed from what McGovern had to do—or thought he had to do—to catch up and win the Democratic nomination in the first place.

But two problems stand out above all the rest:

—The admittedly ill-conceived McGovern proposal that every American be given $1,000 by the government. He dropped it, but was never able to forget it. And the Republicans used it to help implant the notion that, if elected, McGovern would give away the money of the workingman to people who refuse to work.

—The case of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, the vice-presidential nominee McGovern deposed—after promising him 1,000 per cent support despite his tardy disclosure of past mental treatments.

Those, and an assortment of other incidents, statements and allusions, enabled Nixon's forces to make McGovern himself the central campaign issue.

That effectively denied him the traditional offensive role of the challenger, and shielded Nixon from the necessity of any intensive personal campaigning to defend his conduct in office.

It was particularly valuable to a president whose own campaign organization had been implicated in the June 17 wire-tapping of Democratic national headquarters, and whose top White House aides had been accused of political sabotage and espionage.

And it was particularly frustrating to McGovern, struggling to take the attack, but always forced to defend. Nothing nettled him more than the fact that his own credibility, once rated his greatest asset, was put in question.

It was the image of radicalism on one hand and indecision on the other that appeared the central McGovern problem.

In that situation, McGovern steadily escalated the tone and wording of his attacks on Nixon and, in the process, aggravated the problem. He overstated his case, then had to defend the overstatements.

It was a campaign McGovern began on Jan. 18, 1971, in desperate need of exposure and attention to propel him out of single figures in the public opinion polls. At that point, no one could foresee that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, then the towering favorite for the Democratic nomination, would be toppled in the 1972 primaries.

For a year, McGovern campaigned almost unnoticed. He went through three press secretaries in search of someone who could help him command national attention.

That quest, and the effort to shape an identifiably different position among Democratic contenders, helps account for the error that haunted McGovern to election day: the $1,000-grant proposal.

McGovern unveiled it on Dec. 23, 1971, saying he would drop the welfare program and instead give about $1,000 a year to everyone from "the poorest migrant workers to the Rockefeller." The money was to be taxed back from the relatively affluent.

He offered no estimate of the cost.

As with his other proposals of those early days, it went almost unnoticed—to emerge months later as a major issue and a major problem.

That came during the California presidential-primary campaign, when McGovern defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota in the contest that clinched his spot atop the Democratic ticket.

Humphrey hammered at the issue, called McGovern "the handout candidate," accused him of playing "the politics of deception."

Nixon's Republicans were carefully taking notes.

On Aug. 29, in a Wall Street speech, McGovern dropped the income-grant plan in favor of a federally financed welfare system to provide about $4,000 a year to a needy family of four. Again and again, he said it would give nothing to anybody able to work.

But the old proposal, and the impression it left, never stopped haunting his campaign.

The Eagleton case really began with a question, put, by the Missouri senator's account, by Frank Mankiewicz, a top McGovern aide: "Tom, do you have any skeletons rattling around in your closet?"

Eagleton said no, and hours later, on July 13, he was duly nominated to run for vice president with McGovern.

Then, on July 25, the running-mates appeared together in Custer, S.D., Eagleton to announce that he had three times been hospitalized for nervous exhaustion and fatigue, and twice had undergone electric-shock treatments.

"I am 1,000 per cent for Tom Eagleton and I have no intention of dropping him from the ticket," McGovern said.

But six days later, he did just that, saying that Eagleton's medical history would otherwise come to dominate the campaign.

Long afterwards, McGovern said he believed "the Eagleton thing" was at the root of what had then become his credibility problem. "I've tried to explain to people that a political leader who won't change his mind is really a menace rather than a leader."

"But I think that was the rea-

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

POPPY DAY 1972

Nov. 11 Poppy Day

Hope Mayor Dr. Sam Strong has designated Nov. 11, 1972, as Poppy Day in the City of Hope, according to an announcement made today.

The proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS, The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary adopted the Memorial Poppy as its memorial flower in 1919; and

WHEREAS, by wearing the Poppy, Americans everywhere and especially in this city of Hope, Ark., both pay tribute to these war dead and aid the living by assistance to Veterans and their families in time of need; and

WHEREAS, the Poppy Day Program contributions are used solely for the program of Child Welfare and Rehabilitation in our community and state;

NOW THEREFORE, I Sam Strong, Mayor of the City of Hope, do hereby proclaim Nov. 11 as Poppy Day in our City and I urge all citizens of our town to join me in wearing this Memorial Flower as together we remember the sacrifices of so many in defense of our freedom.

Signed Dr. S.W. Strong
Mayor, City of Hope, Ark.

son," he said. McGovern acknowledged, too, that he was hurt by the bitterness of the primaries, particularly the Humphrey attacks in California.

With Eagleton off the ticket, McGovern embarked on what could only be damaging, semi-public quest for a replacement. Only when he came to a candidate with no constituency of his own, Sargent Shriver, did McGovern find a new partner. The Democratic National Committee nominated Shriver on Aug. 8.

But what was designed to be a six-week Democratic head-start on the campaign became, instead, a time of disarray. Amid the Eagleton case and its aftermath, the flow of campaign donations—never enough—diminished to a trickle. The polls showed McGovern losing ground to Nixon.

There were organizational problems.

Starting from nowhere in his drive for the nomination, McGovern had of necessity put together his own organization in the primaries, usually running head-on into the opposition of the party establishment.

That, too, left its scars, notably in Chicago, whose Mayor Richard J. Daley was denied a seat in the convention that nominated McGovern. While Daley came around, some in his organization never appeared to be wholeheartedly behind McGovern.

There were the highly publicized defections of Democrats for Nixon, notably that of John B. Connally, Nixon's former secretary of the Treasury. "Good riddance," said McGovern. "We didn't kick Connally out, he left."

But there was evidence that a good many other Democrats were leaving, too, concerned, Connally said, about McGovern's proposed defense posture; the nominee advocated cuts of some $30 billion in defense spending over a three-year period.

McGovern had presented a detailed defense-spending blueprint, a document that had the virtue of telling the voters precisely what he proposed to do.

But it had the political drawback of permitting the Republicans to assert that it would cost jobs, and to churn out figures about where, and how many.

McGovern remained a candidate in search of a theme that would grab the American voter. He never found it.

He said he was especially puzzled as to why the Watergate sabotage charges didn't take hold. He called Nixon's the most corrupt, wasteful and reckless administration in American history.

What it got him, in his own campaign television appearances, with voters telephoning their questions, was the suggestion that he was mud-slinging, that he changed his mind repeatedly.

In the primaries, McGovern had used maximum organization, door-to-door canvassing, and emphasis on positions specifically designed to appeal to the left side of the party, to come from behind and win. It worked: He captured 10 of 23 presidential primaries.

Early in the campaign, McGovern said he had to reach out, broaden his constituency without compromising his principles.

"I can't win with the 30 per cent of the people who gave me the nomination," he said. He was right.

"Lord, let me know my end, and what is the measure of my days: let me know how fleeting my life is!"—Psalms 39:4.

One of the most tragic things I know about human nature is that all of us tend to put off living. We are all dreaming of some magical rose garden over the horizon—instead of enjoying the roses that are blooming outside our windows today.—Dale Carnegie, American biographical writer.

Stimulate their imagination ...encourage learning

Merry-Go-Round is a new music box toy which will stimulate the imagination of any child who has ever been on a real one. When it is wound the toy revolves to the sounds of the "Skater's Waltz" as four passengers ride around in turtle, swan, giraffe and pig "seats." An operator cranks furiously as the merry-go-round turns. There is an on-off switch to start and end rides.

Beautifully designed in every detail and fashioned from the finest quality wood and plastic the toy is intended for two to six-year-olds.

Molly Moo Cow is an attractively styled pull toy for two to four-year-olds. When the bright yellow, soft plastic cow bell is squeezed Molly's head goes up and a very realistic "mooing" sound is made. As she's pulled along on the big balloon wheels her spring-action tail swishes back and forth. The beautifully sculptured, unbreakable plastic toy has soft, pliable ears and horns as a safety measure.

Business mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — The voluntary resignation rate among managers in their 30s has been shooting upward since the first of the year, said the professor. Optimism prevails, and the young mobiles are changing jobs again.

It is nothing unexpected. Just as water churns when the kettle is heated, so also do the spirited, talented young managers begin to move about when the economy gets hot.

Eugene Jennings, who has spent his adult life — he's a bit on the far side of 40 — studying executive mobility, maintains that this group is the avant-garde of job changers, and that younger and older executives will follow their lead.

"This group is vital to understanding business economics," he said. "They have the most mobility, the greatest capacity to be optimistic. They are a good barometer of optimism. When they move it means people are betting on the future."

For at least two years this group, which usually is the most free to change jobs, was frustrated. "Intelligence dictated that they watch their nests." They were unable to hasten their careers by job changes.

But there is more than optimism and ambition involved in executive churning, which still isn't as intense as it was in pre-recession days but may be double the rate of 1969 and 1970.

Between 1965 and 1968, said Jennings, who is a professor at Michigan State University, an author and business consultant, many companies recruited more talent than they needed.

Then came the recession.

"They discovered that too many of the people they had hired were not of the proper caliber. They were forced to counsel out a lot of young and middle-age managers." To be "counseled out" is to be laid off gently.

In reducing their staffs, however, many companies failed to reassure competent workers whom they wanted to stay. Some of these talented people lost their sense of direction, said Jennings. They too expected the ax.

Many of these managers are now moving on, said Jennings, who maintains 41 listening posts in corporations. Their employment was never reinforced by the company, he said. They weren't told they were wanted.

Easing their movement is the fact that opportunities of age exist. Because of the vagaries of birth rates and economic growth, middle-age managers are in growing demand. There are openings for those in their late 30s to mid-40s.

Basketball star Jerry West offers advice

Traditionally the most baffling question for the Christmas shopper is what to give the man of the house.

This year, though, the wife or daughter is getting some help with advice from a man of the house who should know: Jerry West, the all-Pro guard of the world champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Jerry's wife hit on the solution a few years ago and he's happy to pass it along to other beleaguered Christmas shoppers.

West, no stranger to the pressure of championship competition, says the greatest favor you can do for the hard-pressed male is to provide a relaxing hobby, relief from the pressures of business, freeway traffic, and recurring deadlines.

The answer, says the Laker star, lies outdoors. And, you don't have to escape to the remote forests or mountains. Sometimes you can find the greatest relaxation in your own garden or yard.

West, one of professional sports' strongest family men, enjoys gardening and caring for the trees that surround his Brentwood home. "I especially value it as relief from the pressure of the basketball season," says the man

Boyleing it down

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks you can't escape from hearing after a national election:

"The people have spoken."

"I told you right at the start who the winner would be."

"We may have lost the battle, but that doesn't mean we have lost the war."

"I don't know whether the best man won or not. All I know is that my man lost."

"I admit I told you that if we didn't win this one, I'd push a peanut from Times Square to Pike's Peak, but — uh — I was just kind of exaggerating a little to make my point."

"It's all a lot of hot air anyway."

"Maybe, now that we've got that out of the way, everybody in the office can get back to business."

"The whole thing reminds me of a three-ring circus."

"I think the mud we threw was better than the mud they threw, but the trouble was they had twice as much mud to throw."

"The time has come to thank our loyal supporters. Without the kind of help we got from you, defeat would have been impossible."

"No, I can't say we didn't have enough principles and issues. What we were short of was a little thing called money."

"Well, I'm glad the whole nonsense is over for another four years."

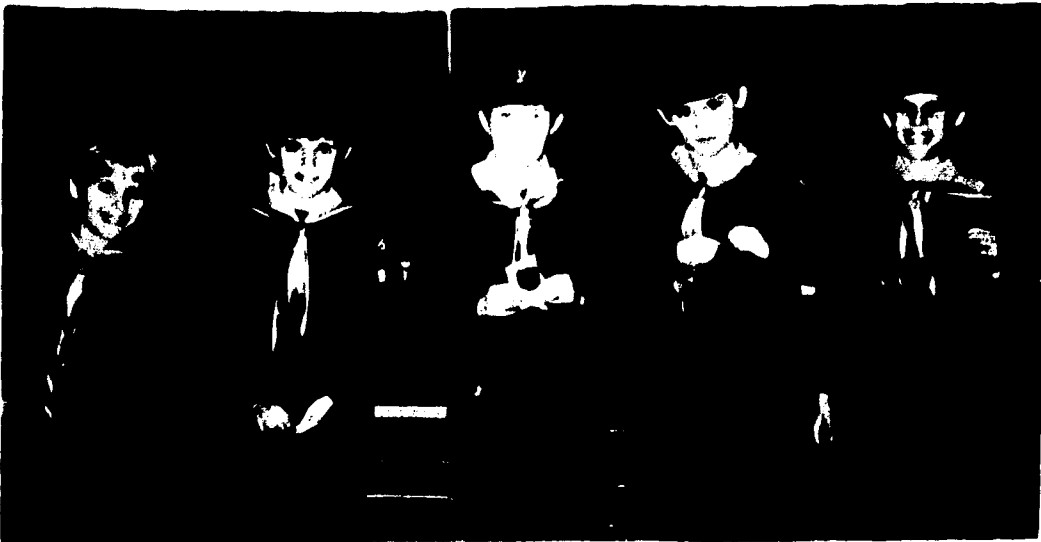

"To tell you the truth, the last one I really trusted was Calvin Coolidge, but I forget why."

"What difference does it make to us, anyway? We still have to go on working five days a week from here to eternity."

"The way those fellows talked, I thought that when we woke up the day after the election the world would look completely changed. But everything looks like it's still in the same mess it always was."

"Well, if that's the way you voted, both of us might as well have stayed in bed and saved ourselves a trip to the polls."

"Now that it's over, Henry, are we still going to move to Australia like you said we would if it didn't turn out the way you wanted it to?"

Scouts receive awards

Pack 93 of Beryl Henry School met for their monthly pack meeting Thursday, Nov. 2, in the school cafeteria. After the opening ceremony, the pack was given a talk by Parks and Recreation Director Paul Henley. He explained in detail the advantages for boys of living in a city with a parks department and also gave them highlights of Hope's plans for the future. Five boys received awards. Pictured left to right are Tom Becherer, Bobcat; Mark Lloyd, Bobcat; Clay Ward, Wolf; Greg Bobo, and Allen Edwards, Denner Bars.

Belinda appeared last week in the University Theatre's production of "The Miser" directed by Dr. George Kernodle at the Fine Arts Auditorium. Belinda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Butler of Hope.

Patricia Westbrook daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Westbrook, and an elementary education major at Ouachita Baptist University, has been assigned to Beryl Henry Elementary School at Hope, for student teaching for the fall semester.

Miss Westbrook will work with Mrs Louise Fuller in the area of first grade. She will return to classes at Ouachita on December 18 and complete requirements for graduation in December.

Hulan White of Hope was the winner of a "Red Barn" given on election day. The "barn" was used as the county headquarters for the Republican Party.

A gift should say "quality," no matter what its price. A well-made present of obviously high quality is very flattering — it says that, as far as you're concerned, the recipient deserves the best. No matter what you're buying, you can be assured of good quality if you choose time-tested brands, and items which carry a simple, unconditional guarantee.

Gov. Bumpers wins big—

389,067 votes and Blaylock 125,064.

In the secretary of state's race, the vote was 243,036 for Bryant to 178,886 for Pulaski County Clerk Jerry Climer, the GOP nominee.

Riley's total was 274,456 votes to 156,068 for Ken Coon of Fort Smith, the GOP nominee.

In the attorney general's race, Tucker had 264,765 votes and Republican Ed Bethune of Searcy 167,801.

Arkansans were choosing a new attorney general because the incumbent, Ray Thornton, ran successfully for Congress in the 4th District.

The victories by Bumpers and the other three Democratic candidates maintained the party's armlock on the state constitutional offices.

The other three Democratic incumbents—Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones, Treasurer Nancy Hall and Land Commissioner Sam Jones—did not have general election opposition.

Blaylock, 63, former state welfare commissioner in the Republican administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, said after his defeat that he was going back to "fix fences and vaccinate cattle" at his farm in Perry County. He said he had no plan to seek political office again.

Although Bumpers had been favored overwhelmingly to win the traditional second term, Blaylock said he thought he had a chance to win. But he said he didn't have the money to finance a presentable campaign. He said his total contributions in cash and materials probably were no more than about $50,000.

The Democratic sweep by such wide margins in all races apparently surprised Republican officials. Although they had not expected that state GOP candidates would enjoy much coattail help from President Nixon in Arkansas, the Republicans had waged vigorous campaigns while their Democratic opponents largely ignored them. Especially were the Republicans hopeful of making a strong showing in the Bryant-Climer and Tucker-Bethune contests.

"It's just one of those years when everybody knows how it's going to turn out," said Coon, 37, a biology teacher at Westark Junior College, who lost to fellow teacher Riley, a political science professor at Ouachita Baptist University.

"And that's tough to wake up to every morning when you've been campaigning for five months," he added.

Bumpers, 47, said as the tide flowed heavily in his favor: "I am deeply grateful to the people of Arkansas for this kind of margin."

He said the year's election was not as exciting as that of 1970, when as an unknown lawyer from Charleston he won the Democratic nomination and then smashed Rockefeller in the general election. But Bumpers said the results Tuesday were more gratifying because the people were "voting for what you did, not what you said you'd do."

The governor has been described as one of the so-called "new voices" of the South and he was mentioned earlier this year as the possible Democratic candidate for vice president.

He was asked Tuesday night what he would do after his second two-year term expired.

"Give me at least a year's respite," Bumpers responded.

He said he wanted to see how his family fared during the next year and that he did not want worry about his future plans to detract from his duties as governor.

At the midway point of the vote-counting Tuesday night, Bumpers was leading Blaylock in all but one of the 75 counties. In that one county—Newton County—only one box had been reported.

Bumpers said he had not feared the Nixon coattail effect in his race.

The state Democratic Committee opened a press room at a Little Rock hotel Tuesday night and the Democratic candidates were to drop in from time to time. But as the Nixon landslide victory grew apparent, party Executive Secretary Bryan Cunningham said he did not think anyone would show up because "it looks too bad nationally."

"The State Committee has been identified as supporting McGovern and people are not going to want to be identified with us," Cunningham said. The four Republican candidates contesting for constitutional offices Tuesday did not have opposition in the GOP primary.

But Bumpers had four opponents in the Democratic primary and he disposed of them with 66 per cent of the vote.

Bryant, 63, defeated three opponents in the primary and Tucker, 29, serving his first term as prosecuting attorney of Pulaski and Perry counties, beat Pros. Atty. Bill Thompson of Fort Smith in the primary. Riley did not have primary opposition.

Blaylock, 63, gave up an $80-a-day federal job as regional representative for the Office of Family Benefits Planning of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in order to make the race.

A retired Air Force major, he switched from the Democratic to Republican parties to work in the unsuccessful gubernatorial campaign of Rockefeller in 1964, later took a job as a GOP field worker and then became welfare commissioner when Rockefeller took office in 1967, leaving the position shortly after Bumpers became governor in 1971.

Consider: what do they NEED ... can use?

Every Christmas season many of us bombard the shops and spend hundreds of dollars on novelties that are often not really wanted or needed. We tend to forget about the real chance we have to substantially enhance our recipients' surroundings and get carried away by holiday whimsy.

Increasingly, however, people are beginning to see the benefits of thinking practical in spite of being revved-up with the Christmas spirit, by considering useful items such as sheets, accent furniture and household basics.

A good example of a useful gift would be one of the versatile, vinyl veneer occasional tables made by Sierra Permaneer of Maryland Heights, Mo. The multifunctional tables feature elegant fronts of walnut and rosewood in alternating panels edged with chrome. Their sleek design makes them suitable for use in almost every room and decor, providing hidden storage space as well as a decorative accent.

A hexagonal commode, measuring a tall 29" high, can store liquor, table accessories, records or magazines while gracing living room, foyer or den. An elegant 60" long cocktail table has two doors hiding plenty of space behind their handsome fronts.

But as good as the obvious attributes are the hidden ones. Special innovative production techniques developed by Sierra Permaneer make these tables cost much less than they look while improving their performance.

—Every gift which is given, even though it be small, is in reality great, if it be given with affection.

THE MOBILE YOU MAKE will delight them. Stretch your Christmas gift fund by custom-making presents such as this Noah's Ark mobile, certain to delight a little brother, sister, cousin or friend. The characters are cut out of rolled-out play clay, a cooked-up mixture of baking soda, corn starch and water.

Make this Noah's Ark Mobile and delight a child (and yourself!)

With Christmas creeping close, now is a good time to test your craftsmanship. Maybe you're a wizard with scissors, a beanbag artist, a tin can genius, a master of stitchery witchery. It's well worth finding out, for the financial investment in custom-made gifts is so tiny that your savings stretch and stretch.

Here's a project to try. It begins in the kitchen with play clay... a cooked-up mixture of baking soda, corn starch and water and ends up with a whimsical mobile of Noah's Ark characters for a child's room that's guaranteed to delight any little boy or girl on your list.

You'll need: baking soda, corn starch, rolling pin, cord, dislodged stones from old costume jewelry, broom straws, defrosted frozen peas, pipe cleaners, paper clips, poster paints, paint brush, clear shellac and wire. And here's the recipe for play clay:

2 cups baking soda (one 1-pound package)
1 cup corn starch
1 1/4 cups cold water

Whisk together the baking soda and corn starch in a saucepan. Mix in the water and bring to boil over medium heat stirring constantly. Cook a minute longer or until mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes. Remove immediately from the heat (over-cooking makes clay crumbly) and turn out onto plate. Cover with a damp cloth and when cool enough to handle, knead a little. Store all but the clay you're about to use in closed plastic bag.

Now roll out clay on wax paper to 1/4-inch thickness. Stamp out animals with cookie cutters. If you prefer your own designs make cut-out cardboard patterns.

Make cardboard pattern for Noah. Add hanging attachments by pressing snipped off end of paper clip into top edge of each character. Now with toothpick, or tip of sharp knife, press identifying features into clay: stones for eyes; broom straws for whiskers; curly-cued pipe cleaners for lamb's wool; peas for alligator scales; snips of frayed cord for tails, mane, Noah's hair, beard and sash. Slide finished pieces onto cookie sheet and wait a day or two until they are bone dry. Then paint, using water colors, tempera or anything except oils. Shellac.

Now to put Noah and his companions aloft. To form the vertical center bar of the mobile, take five 6-inch lengths of fairly heavy wire, forming a hook at the end of each. Hook lengths together. For your horizontal bars cut four lengths of wire varying from 18-inches for the top bar to 6-inches for the bottom bar. Form a loop at the center of each bar. Horizontal bars now hook onto vertical bars, and animals get attached to each end of horizontal bars. Noah hangs from the bottom.

Bright new ideas in holiday make-up

The holidays are a time for experimenting with bright new ideas in make-up, for a look that matches festive clothes and occasions.

But if there's a doubt that blotches and "blears" will spoil this special "decorating" art, take the advice of beauty experts and try cosmetics that are free of all known irritants and allergens.

It's easy now to identify ingredients that can cause allergic reaction, by checking the consumer formulae issued by Ar-Ex, which lists all of the contents of its hypo-allergenic cosmetics. This handy guide—the only one of its kind found at cosmetic counters—also flags up those trouble-makers that must be left out of truly hypo-allergenic cosmetics, so they can be recognized and avoided at all times.

Translucent shades of make-up, mascaras and eye shadows, lotions and creams for the skin; vivid lipsticks—all make up the holiday face beautifully and in perfect safety.

This season, both dazzling evenings and informal cheery afternoons focus make-up interest on the eyes, according to beauty experts, with lively color on lips, against a lighter skin tone. The daytime eye has light, warm touches; for evening eyes darken with subdued color.

It's a wise and sensitive woman who saves the most careful Christmas decorating for herself.

Entertaining is always in season at Christmas time, and florists suggest a centerpiece arrangement of holly or pine combined with roses for the hostess on your gift list. In the days of the druids, holly was believed to ward against evil spirits in the home. A Swedish legend of the Christmas rose tells of trees and flowers bursting into bloom on Christmas Eve to create a Magic Garden. When a doubting monk said the garden was Satan's work, the blossoms faded. Only the Christmas rose remained as the symbol of the season.

Today, fresh flowers in colors cued to Christmas are popular holiday gifts.

Democrats firmly in charge of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The voters who gave President Nixon his landslide victory Tuesday also left the Congress firmly in the control of the opposition Democratic party.

The Democrats widened their margin in the Senate to 57 to 43, a gain of two.

With only seven of the 435 House races undecided, Republicans had made a net gain of 11, compared with the 41 needed to take control. And some of the new Republicans replace conservative Southern Democrats who generally had voted with the administration.

The Senate outcome was an especially hard blow to Republican hopes. The GOP had written off the House as probably unwinnable, but needed a gain of only five to take control of the Senate and thought there was a real chance.

But there was consolation for Republican strategists working for a full two-party system in the South, where many voters in recent years had shown readiness to vote for Republican presidential candidates, but stuck with Democratic candidates at other levels.

Two Republicans were elected to the House from Mississippi and one from Louisiana, the first since the Reconstruction period after the Civil War. And in Virginia, William L. Scott defeated Sen. William B. Spong to become the first Republican senator from the Old Dominion since 1892.

The ticket-splitting voters across the country conformed to no pattern, but ousted conservative incumbents here and liberals there.

Democrat William D. Hathaway ended the 24-year Senate career of Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, chairman of the Senate Republican Conference and senior Republican member of the Armed Services Committee.

But the Democrats lost a Senate seat in North Carolina. Rep. Nick Galifianakis, who defeated Democratic Sen. Everett Jordan in the primary, was defeated in turn by a self-described conservative Republican television editorialist, Jesse Helms.

A stunner was the defeat of Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and an administration stalwart, by Democrat Floyd K. Haskell. Allott had been expected to win easily.

In Rhode Island, Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell, once regarded as an underdog, won by a comfortable margin over John H. Chafee, who resigned as Secretary of the Navy to carry the Republican standard in the Senate race.

Four Senate seats vacated by incumbents changed hands—and the net result was a stand-off.

Republican Dewey F. Bartlett defeated Democratic Rep. Ed Edmondson in Oklahoma to take over the seat vacated by Democrat Fred R. Harris.

The New Mexico seat left open by Democratic Sen. Clinton P. Anderson went to Republican Pete V. Domenici, who defeated Democrat Jack Daniels.

In South Dakota—George McGovern's home state which he failed to carry—the voters chose a Democrat, Rep. James Abourezk, for the Senate seat vacated by Republican Karl Mundt.

And in Kentucky, Democrat Walter Huddleston defeated ex-Gov. Louie B. Nunn to win the seat formerly held by Republican John Sherman Cooper.

The youngest victor was 29-year-old Democrat Joseph R. Biden Jr., who defeated Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, Republican, in Delaware.

Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa, one of the principal Republican Senate spokesmen on economic matters, lost to Democrat Dick Clark.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Democratic leader of the House who has been missing since his plane disappeared in Alaska, was re-elected without opposition.

Rep. Nick Begich, D-Alaska, missing with Boggs, also was re-elected.

With returns still incomplete, it appeared the number of women in the House would increase from 12 to at least 15, and that the number of black members would go from 13 to 18.

Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., former captain of the atomic submarine Nautilus, was defeated by Republican Robin L. Beard.

Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., defeated Pricilla Ryan, widow of Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., who died shortly after he won the nomination over Mrs. Abzug. She opposed him in the primary after a redistricting. After his death, she was designated the Democratic nominee. Mrs. Ryan ran as a Liberal party candidate after losing the Democratic nomination to Mrs. Abzug.

Two-to-four year olds learn skills

Tumble Tower is an entertaining challenge for two to four-year-olds who are just learning such manipulative skills as pushing, pulling, spinning and turning a mechanism. The tower has five levels through which 10 marbles must be dropped. The hole in each level is opened by a pushing, pulling, turning or spinning device. An egg timer, built into the tower, indicates the three-minute limit for the game. After each try the tower can be turned over for another game.

The Tumble Tower is made of durable, high quality plastic and colorfully illustrated.

Humpty Dumpty is an addition to Fisher-Price's distinctive line of pull toys for two to four-year-olds. The toy rolls on all but hidden wheels and is so weighted that Humpty wobbles unsteadily, his hands spin frantically—as if trying to get his balance—and he makes a constant jabbering sound.

Humpty Dumpty is made of brightly colored unbreakable plastic.

Barnyard Friends is an addition to the highly successful Play Family Farm introduced a few years ago. The package includes a group of imaginatively designed animals: Horace Horse, Bossie Cow, Woolie Lamb, Spot the Dog, Pudgy Pig, Henrietta Hen and Rusty Rooster. Also included are fence sections and a trough so children can create their own scenes. The toys are made of durable plastic.

Another item for the Play Family House series is the new Bath and Utility Set. The package includes four members of the play family: Mother, Father, Patty and Kenny and a number of familiar household fixtures. Included are: bathtub, wash stand, toilet, bathroom scale, washer, dryer, chair and sewing machine.

Family projects for many happy hours: making old fashioned ornaments

Making old-fashioned tree ornaments and house decorations is a stimulating project that will provide youngsters with hours of amusement during the holiday season. The handmade bells, trees and angels they create add an old-fashioned warmth to the Christmas scene, enriching the meaning and spirit of the Season for everyone in the family.

USE THE SOFT DUSTING BRUSH on your vacuum to keep tree ornaments sparkling and remove dead needles before they accumulate on carpets and gifts.

Any child five years of age or older has the dexterity to tackle these construction projects. No special equipment is required. Materials used are normally found around the house or can be purchased at the supermarket.

The colorful candy ornaments are a bright addition to any family's tree and the variety and richness of design is limited only by the child's imagination. Various cardboard shapes are cut out, cord loop hangers applied, then candy pieces are added to achieve design effects. What fun for kids on a cold winter day to be making these candy ornaments and snacking on a few of the ingredients, too!

A cheerful decoration for doors or chandeliers is a shiny cluster of silver bells made from paper cups, aluminum foil and ribbon. The swinging bell clappers are Tootsie Pops that can be unwrapped and enjoyed as a snack when the decorations are taken down.

Delicate sugar cookies

EQUIPMENT: Rolling pin, sharp scissors and double boiler.

DIRECTIONS: Draw desired pattern shape — tree, bell, candle, angel — on three - inch cardboard squares, then cut out. Melt three vanilla Flavor Rolls in double boiler. Use melted Flavor Roll as "glue" to attach cord looped to top of cardboard ornament. Flatten Flavor Rolls in other desired colors and flavors on cutting board, using rolling pin. Cut into shapes needed to form ornament's design with scissors. Complete design using Berries, Drops, Crows and other candies. Affix all candy to cardboard with vanilla Flavor Roll "glue."

How To Make Silver Bells

MATERIALS: Seven paper cups in various sizes, aluminum foil, seven Tootsie Pops, ribbon and large bow.

EQUIPMENT: Skewer, scissors and stapler.

DIRECTIONS: Use skewer, or scissors point, to punch hole in bottom center of each cup. Cut out seven strips of aluminum foil, each three inches wider than depth of cups. Wrap foil around each cup, tucking in edge at top and folding neatly over bottom. (Make certain the hole remains open.) Cut seven strips of ribbon in varying lengths from six to twelve inches. Run one length through hole in cup bottom, pull to inside and tie double knot around middle of Tootsie Pop stick. Push end of stick back through the hole and bend about one-half inch of stick end to secure pop inside cup as bell "clapper." Place a band of ribbon around outside of cup to form "design, secure edges by stapling. Complete remaining cups and staple tops of ribbons together, arranging bells to hang attractively at varying levels. Attach a large bow to ribbon tops, concealing ends, and hang on door or from chandelier.

Luxury gifts for connoisseur can be practical

If you're stumped about what to get for the people on your Christmas list who already seem to have everything, don't despair. It isn't necessary to go the silly gold toothpick route or pray you picked the right style of expensive cuff links or beaded evening bag.

Luxury is relative. It can come in packages that won't break your budget, be very useful, and never once bore those lucky creatures who have such a bounty of things.

Here are some items which are not wallet-wringers but yet are very luxury in their category. Books for one. No worldly person can ever have enough books, although in specialty categories books can run very high. Does your recipient like cooking? There are marvelous luxury choices from the "Larousse Gastronomic" at $20.00 to James Beard's new "American Cookery" at $12.50, and don't forget the fascinating "Physiology of Taste" by that famous 19th century gourmet Brillat-Savarin.

Is your friend devoted to health foods? Find an electric yoghurt maker that produces delicious home-made yoghurt simply and cheaply, for about $15.00.

For bon vivants, male or female, you're safe to choose potables, but, of course, the finest you can get. A bottle collector who also enjoys the "Cadillac" of bourbon will be delighted with a lifelike ceramic bottle replica of a native American Wild Turkey holding a quart of 101-proof Wild Turkey Kentucky Bourbon, at about $19.00. This most expensive of the bourbons would be just as welcome in a regular fifth bottle as well; a gift of two would run around $18.00. Aperitif fanciers will enjoy garnet-hued Campari, Rome's chi-chi predinner favorite and a good friend of anyone who has traveled

New toys cater to child's love of playing grown-up in a constructive way

New toys cater to children's love of playing grown-up in ingenious ways. Toothbrushing is likely to become a number one play favorite for the younger set with the Snoopy Battery Powered Toothbrush, especially designed to fit small mouths. There's a Snoopy shaped power handle and Snoopy dog house to hold toothpaste, 2 tooth brushes and batteries.

This Yule season the Juke box is enlisted in the drive to kindle children's interest in reading. Storytime Juke Box by Kenner plays favorite tales which come vividly alive to listening children, as they turn the pages of a colorful storybook presenting the precise words of the narration. New, too, is Screen-A-Show with a cassette screen projector which makes it possible to see the show from both sides. See-A-Show, a new 3D viewer, includes a feature, on "Tom and Jerry Discover Ecology." Drag racing, the fastest growing adult spectator sport and, for several years, a top favorite with school age kids, now will delight children as young as 2½. SSP Pee Wees, operating on gyro power without track or batteries, are especially designed to fit small hands and the Power T Stick is easy for preschoolers' fingers to manipulate. Changing wigs and using different colored contact lenses to achieve a different personality are common grown-up beauty rituals. This Yule, Blythe, a sophisticated fashion doll by Kenner has 4 changes of eye color at the pull of a string, a wardrobe of wigs, some cued to match the color of sun glasses and a boutique full of high style costumes. Gabbigale is the first doll to say back exactly what's said to her — there's a tape recorder hidden inside. Children will imitate grown-up cooking procedures with a new Play-Doh Kitchen Play set with molds for turkeys, fish, bread, etc. as well as serving and menu planning aids. For Jr Cooks, 5 and over, there's the classic favorite, the safety-engineered Easy-Bake Oven operating on 2 electric light bulbs that provides a wider than ever range of delicacies to bake. A new entry in Play-Doh fun is Gomobiles with realistic auto parts to add to molded body shapes. Play-Stone, a unique formulation of natural clays that harden overnight in paintable form without firing, is used for Roll Away Cars, a new kit where young designers just press the Play-Stone into carbody molds, remove the shapes and add the chassis. In the morning the cars are ready to paint. Cool Jewels is another innovative kit by the makers of Play Doh that utilizes Play-Stone to create costume jewelry. New, too, in the crafts sector is the Swinging Spirograph which adds an extra dimension to the fabulous art of Spirography. Rototot has surprise pictures for children to draw and color, a hinged drawing device that always provides a surprise. There's a new Chip-Away kit. The child feels like a real sculptor as he chips away the outside of a plastic block.
